TERMS OF THE DAILY DEMOCRAY TO THE COUNTRY. ONE MONTHS...

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED. We desire to procure the services of a local agent i every Postoffice District in the State. Will our friends act, or procure the services of some efficient person in our behalf? Believing that the circulation of the Democrat may be materially extended, we make this appeal to our friends in its behalf,

No enunciation we meet with is more dangerous than the common one we hear every day, that unconditional Unionism is true loyalty, and nothing can be more untrue in fact. If a man tells us he will not submit to conditions from rebels in arms, we can under stand his motives, and admit them to be good; though we are not prepared to say we would not gladly receive them back upon fair conditions in conformity with the Constitution. On the contrary, such is our love for the Union that the mere fact that the rebels were in arms would not influence us. We love the old Union too much for that. Still, one may feel that it is inconsistent with the pride and dignity of the country to consider terms from armed rebels. His motives are good, his principles may be Constitutional. This, however, is not the issue. A Union of any kind, such as a Union held together by the sword, with laws enforced by a standing army, is not a de. sirable Union. A Union where terror is the raling principle, is a curse, not a blessing. We speak earnestly when we say that in no state of circumstances could we be induced to tionally, if we understand it to mean what it did before the rebellion. Then the Union implied not only the mere territory which composed the States, but also the laws, institutions and securities we had in it. The Union meant more than mere a republican form of government, the rights of the citizen, the protection of our homes and all the blessings we had in our country. Mere territory was the least consideration. We opposed the rebels partly because they oc copied certain territory and held some ports necessary to our prosperity. Certainly, if they had been held by a foreign power w would have wished to acquire them, but would not have given up our Constitution, our republican form of government, to obtain them To put the case by an example: Before we gained Louisiana, if we could not have succeed &d by purchase or conquest, we would not have handed over our whole nation to the Emperor be the unconditional Unionism of the present position, but also because we wished to extend our laws over it. So now, we want it. because we want our Constitution to extend over it. We claim the right to oppose the rebels, not only because they have taken ter ritory from us, but because it is of right sub ject to our laws and institutions. The strug gle is not for mere territory, but for our Re

So the Union as above defined, we are for unconditionally. Not only a Union of terri suing a languid war with Mexico for sometory, but of laws and institutions under the Rebe conditions to our unconditional Unionism we want to know what they are. If it is said

ple will, when Congress meets, check the invasion of consitutional rights. Besides, we see no way to gain "our rights." The same invasions of them are taken in the South, the suspension of the habeas corpus act, &c., that there are in the loyal States. We see some little daylight here yet, and we can afford to await to find out if it is dawn or the twilight

The military arrest of Judge Constable of Illinois, was one of the extraordinary act of these extraordinary times. A woman complained that two men were trying to kidnep her son. The Judge issued a warrant anbrought the men before him. They showed authority to arrest deserters, but had no proof that the young man was a deserter. The Judge, as in duty bound, held them to ball to answer the charge. Whereupon Gen. Wright sent two companies of soldiers and arrested the Judge, and carried him out of the State The result we have not reen. We should like to know the limits of this despotic power from some of its advocates. We understand that a General in the field may arrest men, if it is necessary to the safety of his army or for the anccess of his military operations. It may be prima facie a trespass, but if the pecessity is plain he is excusable.

A man who commits homicide is prima fa cie guilty of murder; but if he can show that he did it strictly in defense of his life, he is

All this men can comprehend; but this care and a thousand others don't fall under the rule. They are unwarrantable dominations of the military over the civil power-trespasses on the constitutional liberty of the citizen.

The Jackson (Tenn.) Appeal, of the 1st inst. has the following: Our information is, that the forces under General Johnston are now strongly intrenched in the vicinity of Tullahoma, having with drawn from the neighborhood of Shelbyville. The position was, we have seen stated, long ago selected as the most easily defended one between Nashville and Chattanocga hy President Davis himself, and, as it has been approved by General Johnston, we may indulge every hope that the wily Union commander will be forced, it he advances, to give battle upon ground that will at least afford our troops upon ground that will at least afford our troops an equal chance. The blunder at Stone river, which was followed by such wholesale slaughter, will not be repeated.

On the Union side no important advance has been made. Heavy re-enforcements have been received, and of late immense supplies passed up the Cumberland. To transport these, the railroad has been repaired to the vicinity of Murfreesboro, including the bridge over Stone river, but a considerable amount over Stone river; but a considerable amount of trestle-work remains to be put up before the trains can run into Murfreesboro.

GOSSIP FROM RICHMOND. From the Richmond correspondence (Feb 22) of the Mobile Advertiser, we extract the annexed paragraphs:

The garroters who infested Richmond a short time ago, have flitted, and a jolly set of Baltimore burglars have taken their places. Three successful burglaries and several attempted ones have occurred within a few days. Friday night a dry-goods store was entered in the coolest manner, and fifteen thousand dolars' worth of articles carried off. The thieves lighted the gas throughout the store, removed the goods and hauled them off in wagons. The police were—around the corner. Many doors have been bored around the locks, but the rascals became frightened before accomplishing their entrance. Well-dressed Baltimoreans are often arrested with "augers" and "jimmies" in their pockets, but nothing can be proved against them.

General John Morgan.

A volume entitled "West Point and Political Generals," soon to be issued by a Southentern publishing house, gives a brief summary of the exploits of Morgan, the great Keutucky partisan. They border on the marvelous; yet they are strictly authentic. He began with a small body of horse, which he raised himself, and during his career has brought from within the lines of the enemy, and turned over to the Confederate service, nearly five thousand men. He has generally been at the head of less than one thousand men—in his famous raid in Kentucky he started with eight hundred and seventy-five, and returned with one thousand two hundred. He has within two years fought more than ed with eight infinited and seventy-five, and returned with one thousand two hundred. He has within two years fought more than fifty battlea—and killed or wounded more than six thousand of the enemy, and has mode upwards of fourteen thousand prisoners. His expeditions have always been of the most daring description; yet he has never, but on two occasions, been forced to fight when he did not wish it. Many of his battles have been of the most desperate character, and he has been uniformly victorious. He has frequently operated hundreds of miles from support, in the midst of overwhelming bodies of the enemy, whose strength was greatly enhanced by the possession of railroads and telegraphs, stretching around him like a web, and almost indefinitely facilitating their power of concentration, while in the same degree it complicated the dangers of his situation. The sagacity with which he has always been enabled to pluck triumph from the same degree it compleated the dangers of ms situation. The sagacity with which he has always been enabled to pluck triumph from the very jaws of these multiplied daugers, indicates the military genius of the highest grade. The following is a summary of Morgan's exploits in the six mouths, beginning 4th of July, 1862, and ending 4th January, 1863: Between 12,000 and 15,000 prisoners and 18,000 stand of arms captured; and $9,500,000 worth of stores destroyed; 4,695 men raised within the enemy's lines, and armed and equipped by himself, he having received but 200 saddles from the Government.—[Charleston Mercury, March 7th.

[For the Louisville Democrat.] LOUISVILLE, March 27, 1863

Louisville Democrat, I read a letter addressed to me by yourselves and others, requesting me to address my constituents of the Second Legislative District on the present condition of our national affairs. I feel very sure, gentlemen, that nothing I could say would throw light on a subject which is involved in so much perplexity, and, I might add, so much gloom. But sad as the picture is, my confidence in the good sense and patriotism of the people, leads me to hope that they, in their majesty, will correct the errors of their public servants, and restore the Government to its constitutional basis

THIRD WARD DELEGATES TO THE CITY Con-vention.—At a meeting of the Union men of the Union, I trust, will speedily follow.

Although I may not be able to make to you a I am, with great respect, Your obedient servant,

[For the Louisville Democrat.] kanawha river Thursday night, that when they passed Catlettsburg, Ky., Thursday morning, the citizens were anticipating a rebel raid, it being reported that three thousand rebel cavalry were coming down the road along the Big Sandy river. The wharfboat and other valuables had been removed to the Ohio shore.

Look Out.—A negro who was confined in the pesthouse, and who has the small-pox, being deranged from its effects, broke out and is running the city at large. His face presents the meeting recently held in the Fourth ward as a candidate for re-election as a member of the School Board. We do not intend, in the least degree, to disparage the claims of the candidate presented, but it is due for. R., the present incumbent, to say that he has proved himself a valuable member of the School Board by his promptness, energy, and efficiency; and we have reason to believe that it is the desire of a large majority of his constituents that he should continue to represent the Fourth ward in the Board of Trustees You are requested by those who know and appreciate his services to announce him as a candidate for re-election.
